Gotham Government Relations, a lobbying and public relations firm that has been successfully advocating on behalf of clients, in New York is opening up a Washington D. C. office in conjunction with the incoming Trump administration. The timing is not coincidental.

We have gotten to know Mr. Trump in the context of working for him on a number of diverse projects. It has been exhilarating to work for a man whom we have grown to respect and admire over the years, and we are looking forward to working with clients on an agenda to advance their interests and to make America a better place to live.

Our new office is located at:

1750 K Street NW
